To

DR. HOMER E. COOPER

As Dean of the faculty
The wise counselor and able instructor
As Chairman of the Rules and Regulations Committee
The zealous exponent of clean sportsmanship
As Chairman of the Course of Study Committee
And the greatest hope for their wise solutions
Who, giving his life of unselfish service
To every good cause that he could promote
Has gained the admiration and gratitude of the faculty as well as the whole student body.

Foreword

IT is our purpose in publishing this volume to gather together the old friends, the traditions, the ideals, the activities and the old familiar scenes of Eastern.

So when the winter-time of your life comes you may resurrect the old annual of '27 covered with the dust of years and thumb the pages to find the old familiar faces and scenes where life-long friendships were created, and where your never-to-be-forgotten college days were spent.

Then will this book be memory's dearest possession and our work will not have been in vain.

Pioneer Life of Kentucky

WHAT could be a more fitting theme for the annual of Eastern than one representing the Indian and Pioneer Life of Kentucky. We are proud that our college is situated in a community rich with traditions of the past.

Madison County is the home of the pioneer life of this region. Daniel Boone being the first visitor and permanent settler. The markers on Boone Trail serve to remind us of strenuous days of the pioneer. As one passes through this locality he may view such points of interest as Boone' Gap, Round Hill, Joe's Lick Knob, Bear Wallow and an old cemetery on Campbell's and Mason's farms near Richmond.

Since our pioneer fathers came through Cumberland Gap and trudged along weary and foot-sore through the fertile valleys, up the rugged mountains, keeping up the courage that made Kentucky, so we hope to trudge our way through knowledge and give Eastern an everlasting name.

Seniors

Spirit of the Senior Class

THE pilgrimage is done and I, the Spirit of the Senior Class, pause in contemplation of the journey. Yes, a rough upward climb, and I have fallen at times, but only to rise and try once more. The reward is worth infinitely more than the price of the struggles and hardships and I have gained entrance to the "Land of Learning".

There is more, however, beyond this land of glittering towers. This land is not an end, but the means to an end, which is to give to the world the benefit of my pilgrimage. Through the knowledge and experience gained I will be able to consecrate my efforts to ennoble whatever phase of life I shall enter.

Social and personal righteousness will be my aim and I shall be successful in so far as I can remain intellectually upright, courageous and open-minded.

Class Officers

President

R. E. Jaggers
Advisor

D. B. Little
Vice President

Mrs. J. S. Jones
Secretary

ALLIE RUTH MOORES
Richmond, Ky.

Allie Ruth is teaching now and we know she is making good for she is the kind that always makes a success. She is noted for kindliness and this, with the many other admirable qualities she possesses, makes her success assured.

ROBERT E. LITTLE
Paint Lick, Ky.

Bob is the quiet sort that does not continually remind you that he is here. But in his own solid and substantial way he has been getting good things that many others have overlooked.

J. DORLAND COATES
Richmond, Ky.

Dorland is one student on the campus that is always busy but always willing to help others. When Dorland leaves us we are losing a thorough business man, studious student and a loyal friend.

MRS. JOHN S. JONES
Williamsburg, Ky.

Mrs. Jones has only been with us for two years but in that time she has proved her real worth as a student. She is a valuable member of the Senior class for she is always there ready to do her part in all activities.

L. K. RICE
Lebanon, Ky.

L. K. conceived a powerful liking for girls and dancing during the latter part of his term, and has devoted a considerable part of his time to it. His favorite haunt is the Gym on Friday nights. With all this he is a great student and we expect great things of him.

LEE PELLEY
Morningview, Ky.

Lee has delivered the goods while in our college, as he may be expected to do when he takes up teaching in some far-away city. If earnestness counts for aught, he should win unusual success.

ANNA L. BERTRAM

Vanceburg, Ky.

Some of us go to college to have a good time, others to be in style, but Anna came to get an education. To this end she has applied herself diligently. She possesses that ancient characteristic of dignity. She is one who believes she was "called to teach," and hopes in the future to be a model one.

THOMAS YAGER

La Grange, Ky.

There with the goods—that's Tom all over. He says La Grange is the best place on earth except Richmond. He knows when to work and when to play. He has the ability and determination to accomplish things that will always make E. P. proud of him.

DEWEY HENDRIX

Yeaddis, Ky.

If you have ever been to Eastern you have seen Dewey for his is one of the familiar faces and names on the campus. He spends much time in the course of "campustry" in which he is one of the best. His major is "math" and expects to startle the world in days to come.

MARGARET LINGENFELSER
Maysville, Ky.

Margaret is now teaching in the Training School and from all reports is making a big success. This girl will be greatly missed by the College, but its loss will be more than compensated for by the influence for good which she will exert in the years before her.

DANIEL B. LITTLE
Paint Lick, Ky.

A few questions asked at random of the Senior class will reveal the high esteem in which Dan is held by those with whom he is associated. He devotes time to study and cultivating a wide circle of friends.

JOHN S. JONES
Williamsburg, Ky.

Jones has only been with us for two years, but he is one of the most loyal members of the Senior class. He believes in avoiding all unnecessary wear and tear on the vocal cords but when he says something it is worth while. His quiet and unassuming manner has won for him much respect and many friends.

BEULAH WILLOUGHBY

Richmond, Ky.

Beulah is possessed of one of those natures that you cannot dislike once you know her. No matter to what end she directs her ability, it will be done forcefully but gently.

EMMA B. ROSS

Lancaster, Ky.

Mrs. Ross joined us after being away for a few years. Her part in student activities has been one of her many crowning virtues. She is now the assistant to the Dean of Women.

ETHEL EVANS

Pineville, Ky.

Ethel, in physical size, is one of the smallest members of the class, yet her quiet, unassuming manner and lovable disposition have won for her a large place in the hearts of her classmates.

JUNIOR

"We Juniors"

We started in the early spring,
Our songs made hill and valley ring;
The quest of life and all its strife,
Was nothing in our youthful life.
Our expectant faces beamed with love
Our kinship with the stars above.
'Tis hard to keep the ideals made,
'Tis better to strive than let them fade.

The summer came to us at last
And o'er the sky great storm clouds cast
Then doubt and fear among us came;
Only ourselves we had to blame.
The trail grew harder, day by day,
And many by the wayside lay
But our bold leaders one and all
Led up the hill at duty's call.

Golden Autumn has almost past.
The summer leaves fall thick and fast.
Our merry songs have turned to sighs
As hope and longing slowly dies.
We must have hope and faith in life,
Before we win this toilsome strife.
And so we take new faith and hope,
With these new trials now to cope.

As winter nears our hardened lot,
We wish and pine for what is not.
Into the season bleak and cold
Our tread will falter as of old,
As thru the season we shall press
And pass it by as all the rest.
Our songs again the wood shall ring,
For after winter comes the spring.

Sailing On

Two years have we gently glided down the stream
And from the quiet shores enjoyed the twilight's gleam
That lighted our hopes and dreams of future years,
And for the time forgot the world's unhappy fears.

So cautiously around the bends have we steered
That into the sea of learning we've been carefully leered.
This ship of knowledge, piloted by seamen trained,
Has taken us o'er the fall into the hurling main.

Has guided us o'er the sea-foamed billows with care,
Has given us the courage to do and dare,
Has taught us how to meet the storms of life,
To aid our passengers as they battle the strife.

Now, the ship is at anchor. Now, we disembark.
We walk the plank ashore with strangely saddened hearts,
But with an anxious look at each task anew
When we shall guide and steer our own small boat and crew.

As we cruise about the sea with eager, expectant youth,
May we recall our skilled seamen's teachings of truth,
May in our hearts arise the longing to sail on,
May we at the journey's end have earned the praise, "Well done".

THE NORMAL SCHOOL

The Normal School

THE Normal School at Eastern is by no means neglected—it is very much in the limelight of campus activities. To begin with, the Normal School is a school within itself, entirely separated from the College except the fact that they both occupy the same campus and are under the same President. The Normal School has its own administrative personel as well as its own faculty. The administration consists of administration of instruction and is in charge of a Principal. In the attractive, well-equipped office of the Principal student problems as well as problems of instruction are cared for by the faculty.

The Faculty? Yes, it is a good one—not a bad member on the staff. Men and women with Masters' Degrees are found on this faculty as well as a number who have done considerabe graduate work. There is not a member who does not know Kentucky's school problems.

The Student Body? It is larger and better, and why shouldn't it be? Higher standards are required of people in Kentucky and these standards demand the best people. We simply are getting our share of the best.

Activities? The campus hums with the spirit of the Normal School. Debators, orators, declaimers, speakers and dramatists flit here and there in their hurried march to fame in the various fields of achievement. More than fifty young people are engaged in this interesting and profitable pastime.

Spirit? Co-operation? Good Fellowship? They are all here. Everywere and on hand, they "smile and the campus smiles with them".

The Forward Look? The Normal School has for its purpose the training of teachers. It attempts to meet the needs of the teacher and others who for various reasons have not secured their secondary training in the local high schools. Mature men and women find their stay at Eastern Normal very pleasant and agreeable due to the fact that they meet others who are mature as they.

Purpose? To serve, is the watchword. Normal is on the alert to meet the needs of those with whom it comes in contact. Those who come, always go away happier and stronger. To serve, then, is not the least of its purposes but the greatest.

THE TRAINING SCHOOL

Why A Training School

MR. Frank was school trustee, and proud of the honor. Miss Gloria Spright had just returned home from Eastern where she had completed the Advanced Certificate course. The superintendent who had advised Miss Spright to go to Eastern. So the young lady armed with a letter of introduction called upon the new trustee.

"And how much experience have you had?" asked Mr. Frank after glancing at the letter of introduction and listening to the timid, preliminary remarks of Miss Spright.

"Well", replied he girl, "I have never taught a school all my own, but I have had practice teaching."

"Practice teachin' ?", muttered the trustee, "What kind of teachin' is that?"

"You see it is this way", retorted Miss Spright, "at Eastern Teachers College they have a Training School which is said to be one of the best schools anywhere, and it certainly must be. The teachers in this school are so skilled in their work and just such splendid teachers in every way that it is a joy to see them teach, and the children are the smartest you ever saw. And you know I observed in that Training School a lot, and also in the two rural training schools."

"O, we learned a lot of methods and devices, and how to teach reading and arithmetic and all the other subjects so children will learn fast, and like to come to school all the time and I brought home a lot of material that I made and collected to help me when I go to teach."

"But", interrupted Mr. Frank, "you have not explained that practice teachin' yet."

"O, yes, I was going to say, after we had learned a lot about the subjects we were going to teach and had observed in the Training Schools, then they tried us out. Believe me, we had to work; but I liked it because I learned so much. I feel like I could teach the best school in our county now since I have had practice teaching. And, Mr. Frank, if you want me to teach your school next year I would be glad to see how well I could do it, just like I learned in the Training School at Eastern."

"Well, Miss", thoughtfully replied Mr. Frank, "I've been thinking while you was talkin'. You see the deestrick by unanimous vote has honored me with this office; and I have said from the first that we was goin' to have a shore enough good teacher, one that was up-to-date. Now I am goin' to confess, Miss Spright, that you have given me an idea about this here teachin' business. I use to think teachin' was a little thing; just so one knew the subjects, had had experience, and could discipline. But this idea has entered my mind since you told me about that training School: after all teachin' must be like what they call the professions. And that's the kind of teacher I have set my head on havin'. Next fall I'm bettin' on you makin' our children learn just like they do in that Training School at Eastern."

RURAL SCHOOLS

Junior High Clubs

CERTAINLY it is a narrow conception of education that attempts to bind the child's interests within textbooks and limit the curriculum to studies classified in water-tight compartments. Every life activity makes its contribution to the child's development and activity leads to further activity. It is the school's place to so determine its objectives and organize its program that desirable associative and concomitant learnings will enrich the school experience.

One day each week is devoted in the Junior High School to extra-curricular activities. The day begins with devotional exercises followed by singing; then comes the clubs, and the day ends with physical education and vocational classes. Every pupil has a choice of membership in any three of the following clubs:

The "Junior High Echo" is the official organ of the Press Club. A regular editorial staff functions very much as that of a daily paper. English classes contribute most of the material.

The Booklovers' Club undertakes to broaden the child's interests in reading. It aids in popularizing the Juvenile Library.

The purpose of the Excursion Club is to acquaint pupils with various phases of civic life and to broaden interests.

Troop No. 7 of the Daniel Boone Council of Boy Scouts of America Consists of three patrols and holds weekly meetings.

The Kentucky Club makes a study of our native state.

Music Club cultivates an appreciation in music.

The Home Economics Club centers its interests in home-making.

The Agriculture Club devotes its time to special farm projects and cultivatess a plot of ground.

The Radio Club owns a radio that can be taken apart and put together. It sometimes works.

ATHLETICS

Athletics at Eastern

TWO years ago the Board of Regents gave the President power to select an Athletic Committee composed of faculty members. This committee through previous experiences was fitted to supervise athletic activities. All regulations concerning athletics are made by this committee. They drafted a new set of rules and regulations last fall. The chairman of this committee schedules all interscholastic games.

Athletics are on as high a plane, possibly higher, than at any time in the history of the school. Only the very best men and women, both physically and in school work, are allowed to take part in inter-scholastic games.

The four year college course is having a very decided effect for the better in the athletic department. More students are enrolling for the four year course. This is doing away, somewhat, with the task of building a team each year from entirely new material. Games are scheduled with such schools as Centre College, University of Louisville, Georgetown College and Mashall College, schools unknown, in an athletic way, on Eastern's campus a few years ago.

The Athletic Committee is at present composed of the following:

A. B. Carter, Chairman
George Gumbert
R. A. Edwards

Baseball

Capt. Stacy '27

THE 1926 Maroon baseball season was the most successful season Eastern has had in years. Fifteen scheduled games were played, with the Maroons wining seven of them for an average .446. Not a bad average when one considers the teams played.

Coach Hembree has always been noted as the coach of a fine fielding team. But it has always, or nearly always, been his luck to have a team that couldn't get the "pill" where someone wasn't. Only one man had a batting average of .300 or more. This one fact will account for several games that are recorded in the "loss" column.

Harvey Hayes and Dooley on the "hill" and Mainous behind the plate formed the most effective combinations. It was thru the stellar work of these two mound artists and the receiving of Mainous, a third baseman by inclination, that saved many a game for the Maroon and White. Hayes is credited with a 4-0 no hit game over Georgetown College. The Tigers just couldn't get past "our" boys. Captain Stacy, of the 1927 team, was the fielding star of that game, snagging a hard wallop from a Tiger bat that would have spoiled the no hit fracas.

The Maroons squared the books with 60 scores to their opponents 60. One shut out no hit game, the Georgetown battle, was handed out by Coach Hembree's men, and one shut out game, the Ohio Wesleyan tilt, was administered to the Maroons. Georgetown was conquered three times out of four times up. Two games went into extra innings. One Kentucky Wesleyan game going eleven and one St. Xavier game going thirteen innings.

Word at first, Gay at second, Moberly at short, and Martin at third formed the inner defense and proved to be good. Stacy in left, Stone in center, and Hensley in right formed the outer defense.

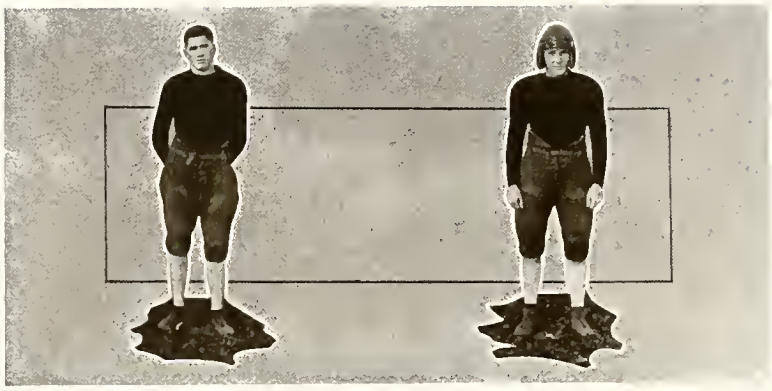
"Our Squad"

THE Maroon eleven experienced fair success in 1926 playing nine games, winning four and losing five. Even tho their standing was a little below the five hundred mark, all agree that the team was successful in that nine games were played with some of the strongest teams in this section. The Maroons made 128 points against 101 for their opponents.

An undesirable handicap, by having the hardest games early in the season, was very much in evidence. Excepting the Marshall College game, the Maroons made themselves felt, even when the count was against them. Coach Hembree developed a fine working machine with marked improvement all along until the ineligible "jinx" hit the squad just before the last game.



Of the nine games played at least six or maybe seven should have been won. The Maroon team was the strongest in each instance, but due to the breaks of the game Coach Hembree's warriors had to be satisfied with a three point defeat in two games, giving some idea of the grim battles in those close games.

The Maroons of 1926 made some of the longest trips in the history of football at Eastern, with one to Huntington, West Virginia and one to Terre Haute, Indiana. Games were played with four Kentucky teams, two Tennessee teams, two West Virginia teams and one Indiana team.

"Beck" Combs, brilliant tackle, was the outstanding lineman with Captain Alford, at center, sharing much of his brilliancy. These two men were right in the thick of every play making themselves felt on both defense and offense. Captain "Al" was the only man to play every minute of every game.

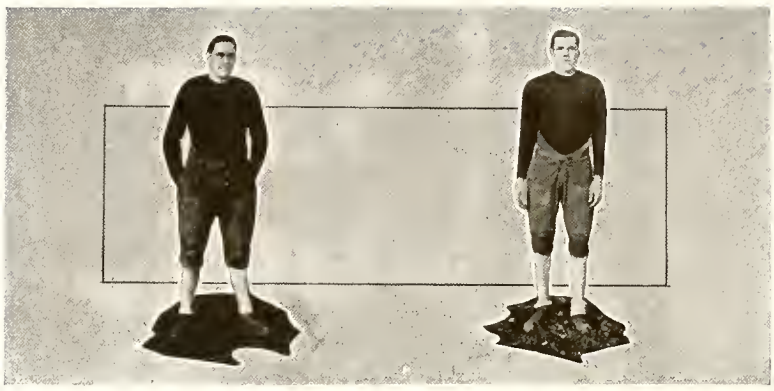
The scorers were led by Gentry, the hard working fullback, with 61 points to his account. He "booted" thirteen out of eighteen tries for extra point. Captain-elect J. Moberly of the 1927 eleven was second in scoring with 18 points as his part of the work. J. Moberly was best at running interference and a tower of strength on the defense H. Moberly, Yoak, Cosby and Janes accounted for one touchdown each.

The longest run of the season in any Maroon contest was made by Combs, who blocked a punt and raced fifty yards to the three yard line in the game with the Indiana Teachers at Terre Haute. H. Moberly made a nice thirty-five yard dash for a touchdown against the same team only to be called back on a foul.



Many good men appeared among the reserves and with them coming back Coach Hembree should have a winning team in 1927.

Coach Hembree

IN appreciation of Coach Hembree's untiring efforts in developing Eastern's athletics to the present high standard, this page is dedicated.

For seven years Coach Hembree has been giving the very best within his power to bring athletics to a par with the athletics of other Colleges within the state. Athletic relations with such Colleges as Centre, Georgetown and the University of Louisville—colleges unknown on Eastern's campus in an athletic way a few years ago—is ample proof of his success.

In his stay here he has built up a friendship among the students and faculty, second to none, with his host of friends growing each year. His popularity among the town people is a source of much satisfaction. It is hoped that he will continue his good work for years to come.

Review of Girls' Basket Ball Season for 1927

THOUGH our girls only won one game out of eight that they played, they put up a good fight each time, and we should be proud of them. We must remember that they were up against some of the best teams in the State. Among these we may number Georgetown, University of Louisville, Transylvania, and Western. At the latter place they were compelled to play strictly girls rules which slowed them down. In spite of this, they went in and did their best.

Eastern faced the problem this year of building up a team around two old players, Miss Waggoner and Miss Perkins. The former making thirty-one points at forward and the latter playing a fine game at guard. Miss Jesse played either guard or forward, and Miss M. Blanton helped Miss Perkins keep down the opponents score. At the center position was Miss Simpson, from last year's State Championship High School Team.

Miss Correll played a wonderful game at the first part of the season, scoring forty-four points. The last half she was unable to play on account of being ineligible. Even then she was high point "man". Miss Biddle came at the beginning of the second semester. She was a member of the Wonder Team of Georgetown when in high school and she lived up to her reputation in college. Another player that only played for a part of the season was Miss Thompson. Early in the season she fell and hurt her knee while in practice, this kept her out of the games the rest of the season.

Miss Dean, forward, came third in making points with twenty-six to her credit. She also did excellent work through the whole season besides goal throwing. Miss Pope, another forward, should be commended for her floor work. You never knew where she was going to be. She came from Cumberland College where she played one year of basketball. We certainly are glad that she changed schools. Miss Faulkner did good work both at guard and forward. Besides these were several others that should be mentioned; Miss Jones, who came near the end of the season, Miss Scott, Miss S. Blanton, and Miss Bunch. All of these went at it in a good spirit and we are willing to say that we don't know what we would have done without them.

Our first game was with Georgetown. Here the team showed fine work, though we lost. We had two games with Transylvania losing both games but not by a very high score. Other teams we played were Western, Paris, Y. W. C. A. (won over them by a score of 29 to 11) Wesleyan and University of Louisville.

During the whole season Mr. Hembree had to be changing his team. This was due to the fact that players were out for various reasons and new ones were coming in. It is hard to make a team unless you can go through the season with them.

Basketball

PREDICTIONS of 1926 failed. The boy's basketball squad didn't get going as was expected. Altho this year's team was a better combination and won more games than last year's five, it can't be classed as a successful net aggregation. Nevertheless, the fighting spirit was very much in evidence. Just at the time everbody started going good with a show of real form, the old "jinx" appeared in one form or another to completely upset the whole squad.

Such teams as Georgetown, Western, Centre, Berea and Kentucky Wesleyan were played. All these teams played in the state tournament, giving some idea as to the class the Maroon boys were stepping in.

The Maroon lads scored 358 points as compared with 460 for their opponents. Hensley, at forward, lead the string of sharpshooters with a grand total of 115 points. Manley, playing in only nine games, accounted for 103 points as his contribution. Next in order was Captain "Beck" Combs with 67 markers from running guard's position. Many of the other boys scored several times, but their efforts were pretty well scattered.

Captain Combs was the most valuable man to the team. He was used as a running guard this year. He was a regular sharpshooter from deep down the side line, and his guarding was sparkling, stamping him as one of the best guards in the state.

Paris Athletic Club was played and defeated before the Holidays. Action, after Christmas, was started against Kentucky Wesleyan. Captain Combs and boys continued their unsuccessful drive until Transylvania was met on the home floor, and defeated by an eight point margin. This victory was duplicated by another win over Trancy on their own floor, only to lose to them in the tournament at Winchester.

The most impressive victory of the year was the Union game. Everyone had his eye on the basket that night. The best team work of the year was shown in this game to come out on the long end of a 44-21 count.

The second string men used during the season included, Clifton, Pieh, Douds, Tripplett, Clouse, Gentry and Hunt.

The fact that Coach Hembree faces the job of building a new team each year is one reason for the poor showing in 1927. Until more students come to Eastern for the four year College work the same problem will appear each year.

ORGANIZATIONS

THE Open Forum, the organization to which all students of the school belong, both normal and college, has had a very busy year.

The principle things which the Forum has accomplished are: established a scholarship award, which is to be a semi-annual affair of the school; conducted an art exhibit for three weeks from the Metropolitan Art Museum; sponsored the Armistice Day Parade; responsible for bringing the college high class lecturers and programs such as Dr. Funkhouser of the University of Kentucky; Dr. Wang, a Chinese lecturer; Dr. Sory, an authority on Trachoma; Kitchen Cabinet Orchestra; presented the school a beautiful Eastern blanket; gave Christmas cheer by spending one evening in singing Christmas carols; established ushering committee, which serves at all school evening entertainments; selected and arranged a group of appropriate school songs; sponsored a series of lessons on parliamentary procedure in charge of Mrs. W. A. Fite. It has also been responsible for several receptions.

The Open Forum has been responsible for the Tuesday assemblies, which have been outstanding, in that, they have always been either informational or inspirational. This was accomplished by means of having debates, orchestras, country programs and Home Economics Revue.

The Open Forum meets the first Tuesday in each month for transacting business. It has a committee known as the Open Forum Committee who meet on Mondays of each week.

Little Theatre Club

EVERYWHERE there was a scurry and hurry, and loads of excitement. It was not long until all the excitement did subside and all about there was a death-like quietness. From the right there appeared a very white ghostly looking creature with burning starry eyes; she was met by two similar creatures whose knees and teeth shook with such force that sounded like a jazz orchesra. No, it wasn't an assassination; only the try-out for the Little Theatre Club.

These shaking ghosts were quickly transformed into hideously colored and dressed humans who took turns in petting a rooster some tried to sell it and even took it for a ride. The class rooms were decked with pigtails, bedroom slippers, umbrellas, bathrobes, and suitcases all worn or carried by these queer people. A wheelborrow loaded with girls was madly pushed about the campus. Don't get up in the air, they are not in their second childhood, it was only initiation night.

Now the fun becomes more fun! Footlights! Curtains! Makeup! and Plays! To show the world the real stuff these childish creatures did do! Some of the more sophisticated ones directed a play and jumbled them all together cleverly and gave a delightful evening of one act plays, "One Egg", "The Florist Shop", and "Mansions". This Club really can get serious and do some real work and studying as can be seen by the folowing plays "The Step-Mother", and "What Happened to Jones", which were given in the club either for presentation, make up or costuming. The real climax came in the annual play the "The Whole Town's Talking". This club deserves a genuine hand shaking for the work accomplished. Play night is over and all are tired out, but don't worry, this lively bunch is never tired long.

The biggest time of the year and all through the room is a soft mellow glow, which beautifully displays the artistic scenery of streamers balloons, and flowers. All about are pretty, light, fluffy gowns of every hue. Some are abbreviated but they are pretty and cool! These are contrasted by the white bosoms outlined by the conventional black of the dress suits. Smiles and chatter are abundant! Everyone is happy! Suddenly the chatter ceases and there's a terrible licking of lips. Don't blame them a bit because it's their banquet night, a time for fun, eats, and dances. After the revelry and fun was quieted by dawn the parting group boisterously sang "Show Me the Way to Go Home".

A GROUP of students interested in commerce met in the fall of 1926 and organized a commerce club to promote that phase of education at Eastern. There were about five members at first and now has grown to almost sixty. The club meets every two weeks for a program embracing topics of interest to commerce majors. It has published a weekly bulletin during the second semester, presented a minstrel, offered a scholarship award of $5.00 to the student who renders the greatest service to the club and department, and purchased a paper clipping machine for the typewriting department.

This we believe is a good beginning and next year plan to enlarge their program of activities. No club on the campus has aroused greater interest than has the Commerce Club, and it is natural that its growth should be in proportion to the enlargement of the Commerce Department.

Country Life Club

The Eastern County Life Club has been an active organization since 1925. Its membership is composed of students from the normal and college departments. It meets bi-monthly and has proven a popular organization to study at close range many rural problems of the teachers and in a measure to solve some of the difficulties confronting the inexperieced teacher in the rural field.

The Madrigal Club

THE Madrigal Club of Eastern State Teachers College is an organization composed of female voices selected by Director of Music, Mr. John Orr Stewart, Jr. Applications for membership are received at the beginning of the school year and arrangements made for individual tryouts. The candidates are tested for music, voice quality, ear for music, ability to sing in time, knowledge of musical literature, etc. This year the club has given a Christmas program and is prepairing an Operatta for presentation during May; in addition they will have a prominent part in the outdoor May Day Festival. Marion Terrill is President of the Club, Vessie Adams, Secretary and Treasurer; Ota Warfield, Librarian.

May Queen

Miss Ava Howard is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. N. S. Howard of Harlan. She was elected May Queen by the student-body at the Eastern Teachers College. Miss Howard is a member of the Diploma Class. She presided over the May Festival, held at Eastern on May 24.

Once upon a time a student took an examination. It was a chemistry exam, which there are none more absurd. One of the questions was, "Give in detail the process for making mercuric bichloride." In answer to which the student wrote, "God made all things, even mercuric bichloride." Imagine his surprise when he received his corrected exam book and read:

"God gets the credit, you get F."

"He done us wrong," wailed the alg bra problems as Oscar Grahm handed in his exam paper.

Dean: "My man, didn't I tell you not to drink to excess? When you feel that you've had enough, quit, and don't get drunk."

Yoark: Sir, that's just the trouble. I'm always drunk before I feel that I've had enough."

Jim Stacy: "No Mother I didn't lose my front teeth; I have them here in my handkerchief."

"Bloody" Hamilton: "Private, I'll impress upon you that you must be more respectful toward me. Why, at times I've had more than two hundred men under me."

Sam King: You ain't got nothin' on me. I had twelve hundred people under me last summer."

"Bloody" doubtfully: "What were you doing?"

Sam: "I mowed the grass in the cemetery."

Beckham: "May I kiss you?"

Gladys: "Heavens, another amateur."

Bill Mansfield: "Pardon me, has your dress slipped off or am I seeing things."

Alice: "Both."

Bee Daniels: "What did you do when you worked in the sawmills?"

Rabbitt: "I came, I saw, and I sawed and sawed."

Dreams
DREAMS created by the imagination precede the achievement of real y great accomplishment. The knowing how to weave the threads of imagination into the finished product is equally important.
It has been the custom of the GEO. G. FETTER PRINTING COMPANY to interpret the ideas of the Staff and create in material forms their dreams.
The printing in this volume is the result of organized co-operation with the Staff.
Such co-operation is one of the "Dreams" which precede the building of a successful business, and is the real working policy of the GEO. G. FETTER PRINTING COMPANY.
You, too, may be proud of your Annual.
